International Events at SUNY Cortland

“Memories of a Berlin Boyhood”

Lecture by Dr. Henry Steck, Distinguished Service Professor, Department of Political Science, SUNY Cortland

Part of the Rubble Films Series: Classics of Post-1945 European Cinema

Organized by: Program on Central and Eastern Europe, Clark Center for International Education, International Studies Program, Project on Eastern and Central Europe, Department of Political Science, International Programs Office

Made possible with support from Auxiliary Services Corporation

Date: September 23rd @ 4:30pm

Location: Jacobus Lounge

As a young 10 year-old child, Henry Steck lived in Berlin where his father was an American official as part of the US occupation. He will share memories of his life amidst the rubble of Berlin as a dependent child of the occupying authorities. The day he arrived in Berlin with his family his father took them on a drive through main thorough fares (by the Tier Garten for example) that were still lined with rubble and that the “rubble women” were still clearing. We invite students and audience to engage in a conversation that will awaken questions on listeners’ part as well as

Prof. Steck's memories.

Murderers Among Us (Germany, 1946)

Part of the Rubble Films Series: Classics of Post-1945 European Cinema

Organized by: Program on Central and Eastern Europe, Clark Center for International Education, International Studies Program, Project on Eastern and Central Europe, Department of Political Science, International Programs Office

Made possible with support from Auxiliary Services Corporation

Date:September 23 @ 7pm
Location: Sperry 104

Ranked by critics as one of Germany's most important films, Murderers Among Us offers a wrenching look at history and humanity in the immediate aftermath of the end of the European war on May 8, 1945. Set amid the ruins of Berlin the characters attempt to recreate life amidst the ruins of Berlin. Susanne Wallner (Hildegard Knef) is a concentration camp survivor; Hans Mertens(Ernst Wilhelm Borchert) , a former German officer, who is unable to live with the guilt of what he and his former fellow soldiers have. The two must learn to live side by side. The film has a surprising optimism for a time characterized as Year Zero. This is one of the first Rubble Films -- Trümmerfilmen(Directed by Wolfgang Staudte.(Source: Summary drawn in part from Amazon.com and Ali Davis at Amazon.com)
